

John Schott

John grew up in Alexandria, Virginia before attending Virginia Tech, where he earned a B.S. in Crop and Soil Environmental Sciences and an M.S. in Civil Engineering in 1993. He also received an MBA from George Mason University in 2000. John is an experienced executive that has directed successful growth initiatives at nearly a dozen technology companies over the past 25 years. An expert in management, operational execution, and go-to-market strategy, John joined the MOVA team with the firm belief that the company is well-positioned to meet growing environmental demands across multiple industries.